An Honour for Eddie

Not only did Eddie Minghella turn on the Ryde Christmas lights on the evening of December 3rd, but he also made history when Ryde Mayor Cllr Henry Adams presented him with a scroll honouring him as a free-man of the town of Ryde in recognition of his public service - the first time this has been awarded for over 100 years!

Eddie receives the scroll from Mayor Cllr Henry Adams.

Walsall's Ambassador pays a visit

On the 15th November we had a visit from Mark Dabbs, who describes himself as the running ambassador for Walsall, and is meeting all the mayors he can around the country. He was met by our mayor Henry Adams at the centre and local books were exchanged.

Churchill's Last Wartime Secret

On November 16th Adrian Searle gave a fascinating talk about Churchill's last wartime secret to an appreciative audience at Yelf's Hotel.

Local History talk at Seaview Yacht Club

On November 26th Brian, David and Peter gave a slide show and talk on Seaview's development, local transport shops and pier. The evening began with an entertaining talk from Will Caws, whose family founded Seaview, about his formative years to an audience of around 100 people. After our talk we were treated to a wonderful three course dinner and made very welcome. The yacht club has an interesting history and there were lots of old photographs on display for us to look at as well.

Balfour's Bembridge

John Matthews gave us a fascinating talk on the 12th January about Jabez Balfour who had ambitious plans to redevelop Bembridge to rival Ryde as a seaside resort using money from small investors in his building society.

The plan failed and he lost all their savings and went to prison, but still returned to the island afterwards but remains possibly Britain's greatest financial fraudster.

Our next talk will be on March 8th when islander Jo Cooper will be talking about her childhood memories of growing up on the Isle of Wight between the 1950s and 1960s. This will be at Yelf's Hotel, Union Street, Ryde 7pm for 7.30 - 9pm, £4 for members and £5 for non-members.

Currently on display at Ryde Heritage Centre...

Swimming costumes c. 1920, the one on the right has “ASA Regulation Costume” on its label.

School desk from the 1940s, possibly earlier, on loan from IOW Council.

Used on early Island Railway carriages in the winter - the cylinder was filled with boiling water and covered with a rug for passengers to warm their feet.

Youngsters from Ryde School Visit

We had a most enjoyable visit on Wednesday 1st February by youngsters from Ryde School organised by Toni Simons.

About twenty students and four teachers split into four groups each with one of our volunteers and enjoyed a guided tour of the Heritage Centre.

One of the more exciting exhibits for the children was our display of items that have been dug up locally which shows a wide range of objects, not only fossils that have been recovered. The students were able to pick up and examine the objects - a “hands on” experience which gave them a lot more interest and hopefully they may go on to discover some of their own in the future.

Did you know?

The now closed Beds of Ryde shop near the bottom of Union Street has an interesting feature - if you peek through the windows and look at the room at the back of the shop - the ceiling/floor above is supported by two lengths of railway line. I believe that they have L&SWR (London & South Western Railway) moulded on them, which would make them from the 1870s to the 1920s. They have been painted white but are clearly visible.

If any members have knowledge of other quirky Ryde building facts, please let us know.

The Eagle Hotel, Ryde High Street

Most locals know that the Arcadia building on the Esplanade was once an Eagle Hotel as you can still see the Eagle lettering behind the Arcadia sign.

However, there was a second Eagle Hotel in the High Street where the Doctor Who and RSPCA shops now stand. You can see the Eagle statue on the facade at the top of the building and it has kept the distinctive bay windows on the first floor. The gate on the left is still there as well.

Ice Well Room no more...

The Ice Well Room is now The Tony Packer Room in honour of one of our founders who died in 2015. Many thanks to Mike Claridge for making the sign.

More thanks are also due to Tony Packer (jnr) and Linda Russon for organising our Quiz Nights at Yelfs Hotel on the last Thursday of every month, they help us to raise valuable funds to keep the Heritage Centre open.

Many thanks also to the volunteers who help out at the Collectors Fairs, and bake cakes, man the canteen and the front desk.

And a big thank you to Allan Packer who has provided us with a plexiglass screen for the Ice Well, making it safe for visitors.

The Tony Packer Room is progressing well with more thanks to Jerry and Mike for all their hard work. We still need to plaster the ceiling and sort out the electrics and wiring when funding allows. The next stage will be the passage between the pavement and the Ice Well itself which has serious water ingress from the outside and provides us with a huge challenge. We're up for it!

Where is this?

We have a few pictures that we are not sure about their location, we don't recognise the church next to the Ironmongers - so it is not Ryde; and what is the event in the next photo and where is the big building in the background? If you have any ideas then please let us know.
